

From Disruption to Consensus: Facilitating Effective Board Decision Making

Program Overview

One of the more challenging jobs of board chairs and other board peers is dealing with difficult decision making where passion and emotion may run high. Facilitating effective meetings is not a natural skill—it's learned and there are some critical factors that make for inclusive input, effective management of disagreement and in some instances dealing with the aggressive board member. This webinar will cover elements of effective board decision making and how a board can best navigate their way to working consensus.

Program Objectives

- Discuss how to facilitate good meetings: from garnering participation to handling disruption
- Discuss how to navigate disruptive board members to achieve a desired consensus
- Identify strategies that lead to more effective board decision making
