

Preventing Workplace Violence

Program Overview

Workplace violence is a major concern for employers and employees nationwide. It can be any act or threat of physical violence, harassment, intimidation or other threatening disruptive behavior that occurs at the work site. It ranges from threats and verbal abuse to physical assaults and even homicide. It can affect and involve employees, clients, customers and visitors.

Workplace violence comes at a high cost; however, it can be prevented. During this webinar, the speaker will provide an overview of workplace violence programs and OSHA resources available to assist in the review of existing programs. OSHA has compiled a suite of resources to help you build and implement a comprehensive workplace violence program in your health care facility.

Program Objectives

At the completion of this program, the participants will be able to:

- Understanding of OSHA's expectations for a workplace violence program for the health care setting
- Learn more about OSHA's directive for workplace violence inspections

About the Speaker
