Program Overview

Maryland's transition to the AHEAD Model will bring changes that extend beyond health care policy and payment. AHEAD may influence how health care organizations operate, how teams function, and what leaders are expected to prioritize.

This interactive virtual leadership program is designed for mid-level healthcare leaders who want to understand what the AHEAD Model is and what it means for them and their teams.

Participants will explore the evolution of Maryland's unique health care model, key components of AHEAD, and the potential impact on leadership responsibilities, workflows, performance expectations, and collaboration. Most importantly, participants will gain practical strategies to lead through change, communicate the "why" behind new expectations, and help their teams successfully navigate Maryland's evolving health care environment.

Program Objectives

1. Describe the evolution of Maryland's healthcare payment and delivery models, including key factors driving the transition to AHEAD
2. Identify key components and goals of the AHEAD Model
3. Discuss potential workflow implications of AHEAD for leaders, teams, workflows, performance expectations, and cross-functional collaboration
4. Apply practical change management strategies to help navigate changes associated with the new environment

Target Audience: Mid-Level Leaders who may be impacted by changes associated with Maryland's transition to the AHEAD Model
